DEDICATION

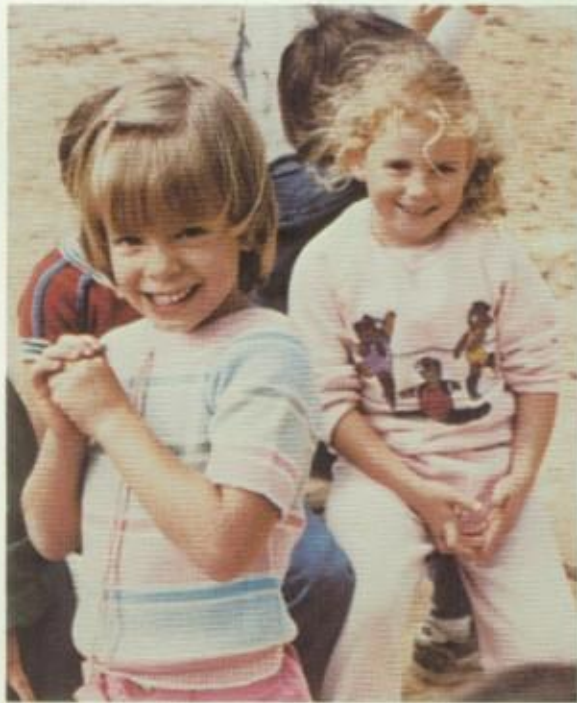

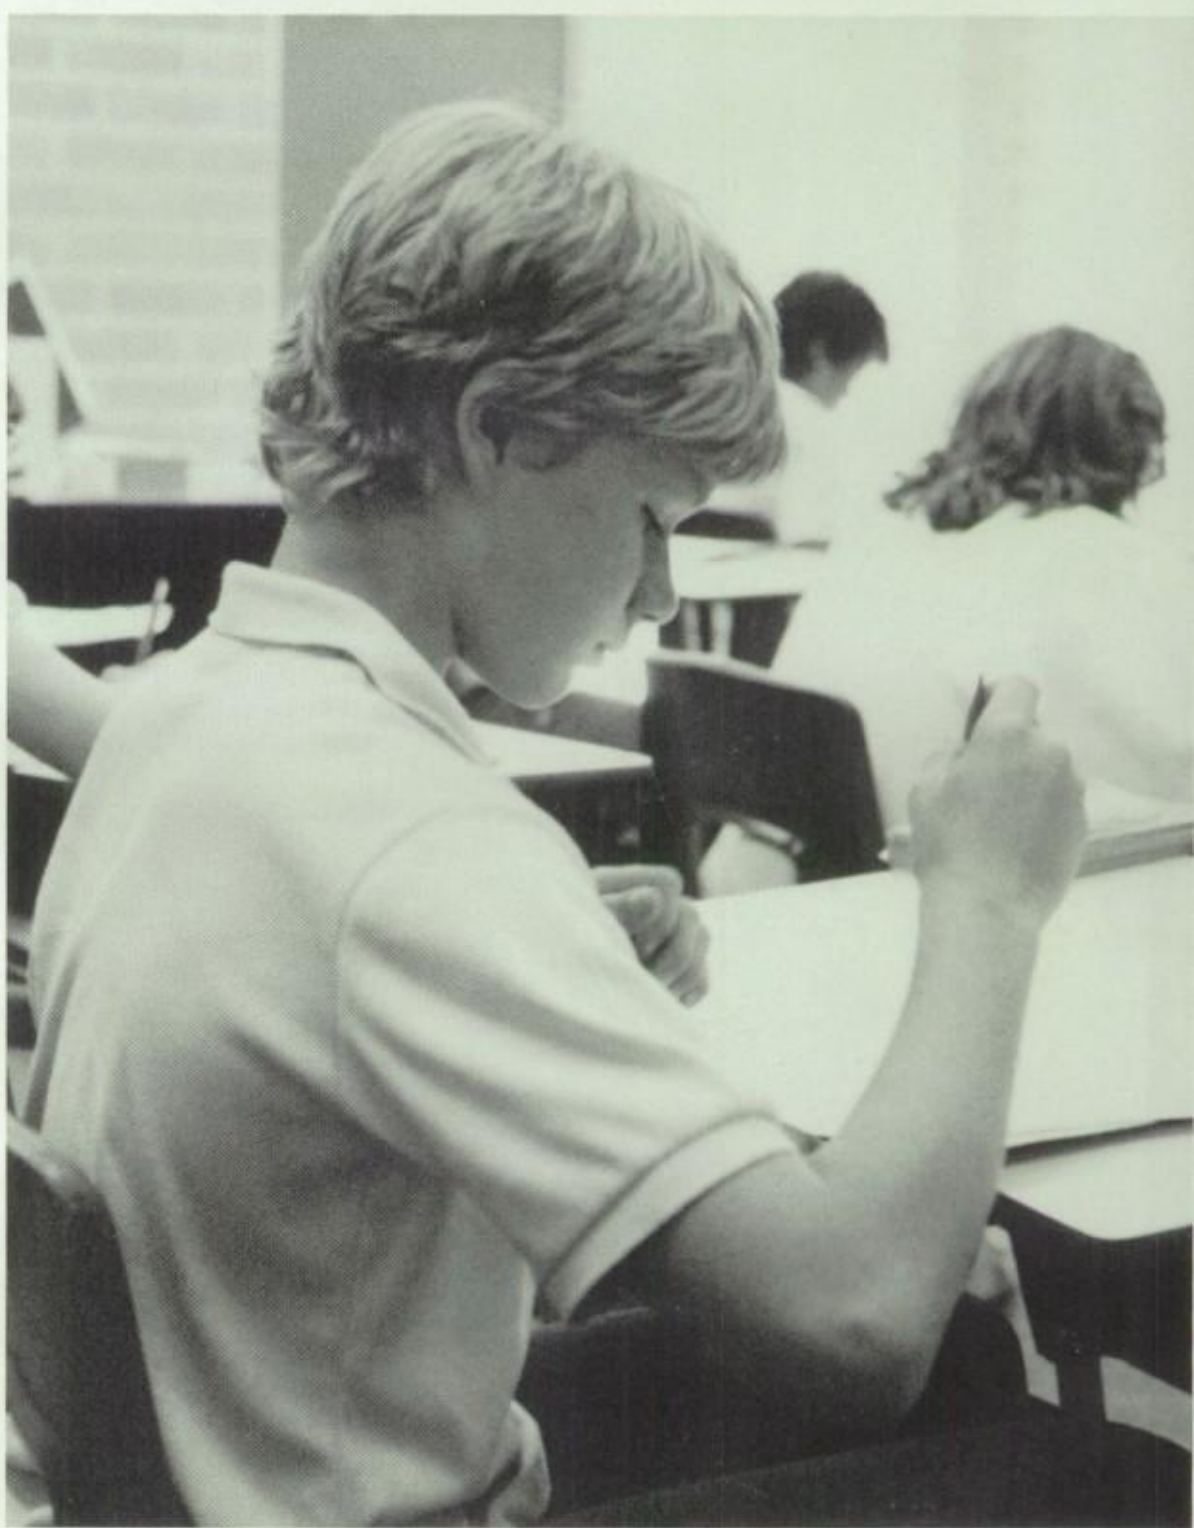

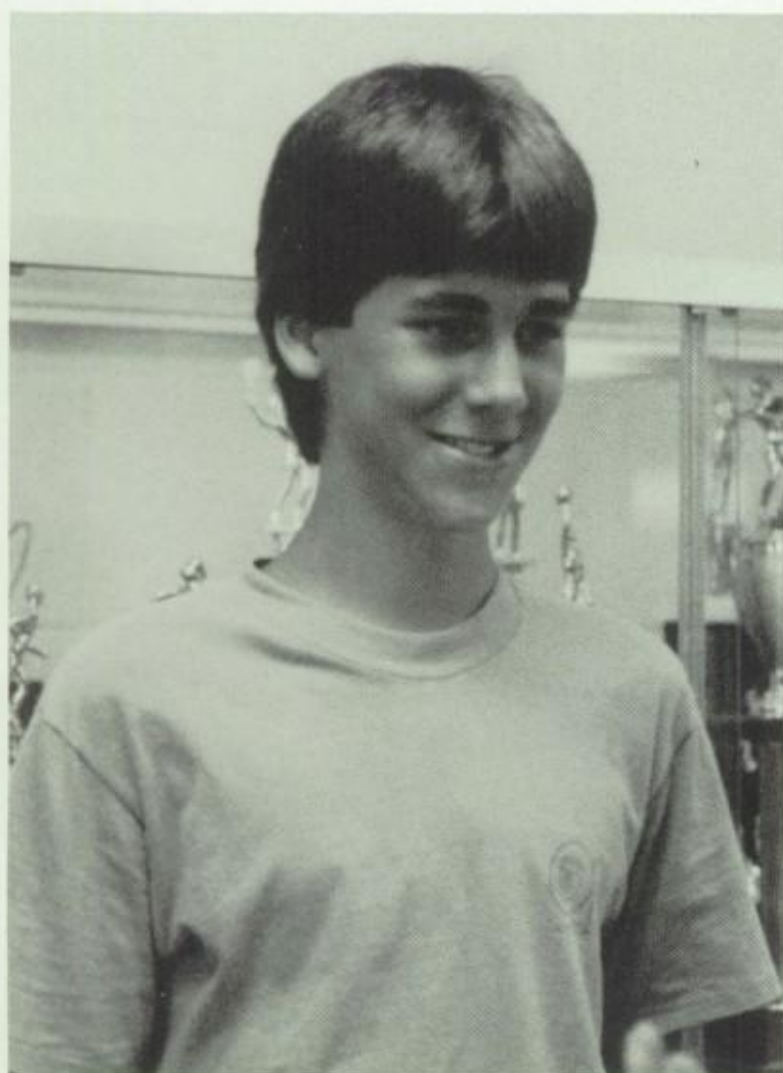

As a scholar in Latin and History, and as a lover of mythology, it is only fitting that today we read the myth of Mrs. Janet Rhodes.

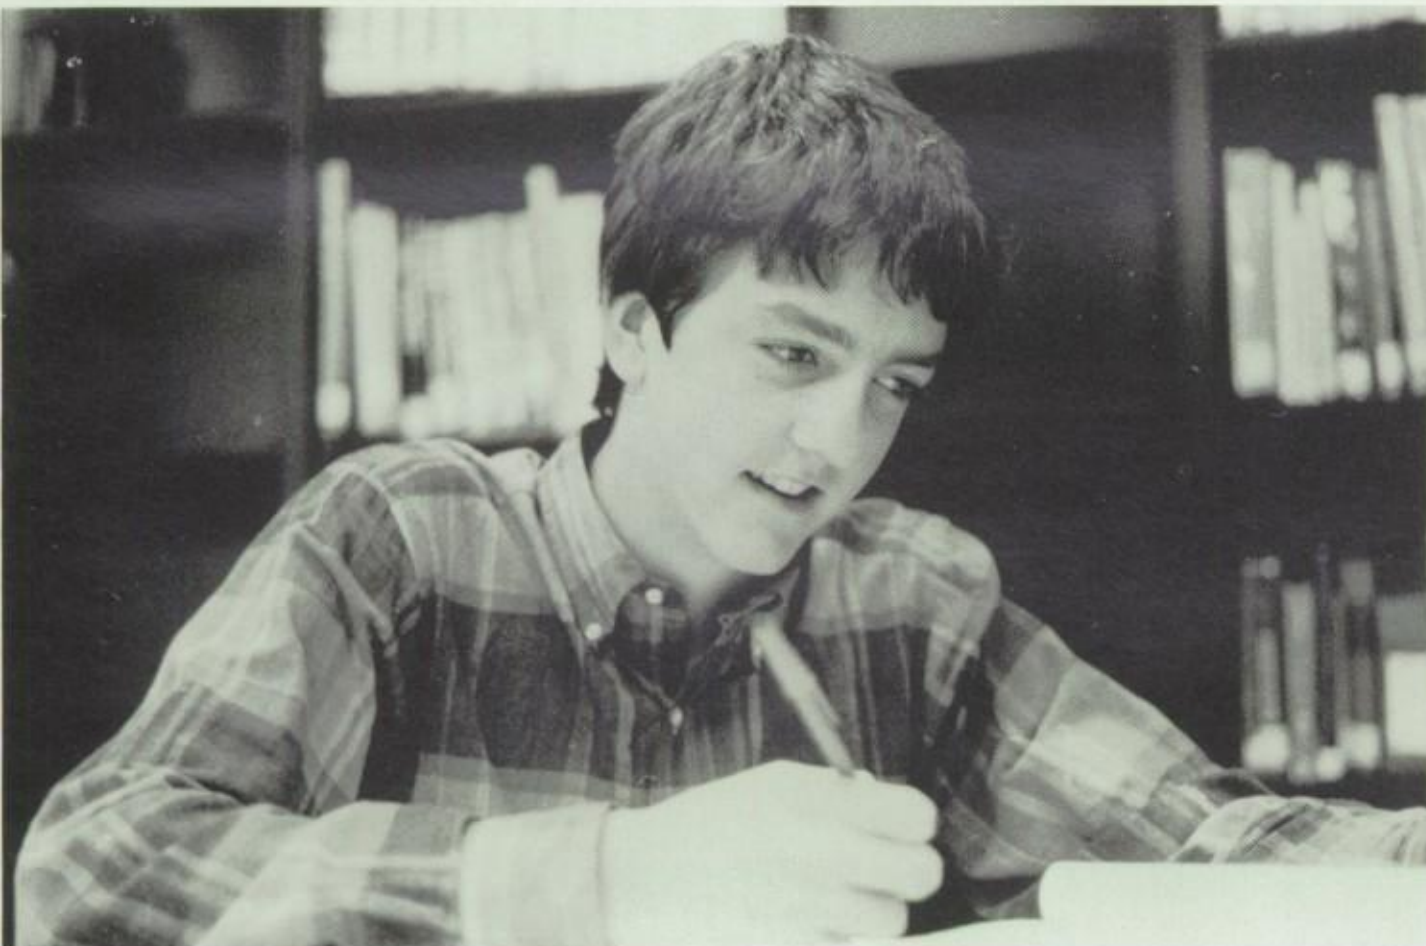

Many years ago there cameth to Greensboro Day School a new breed of teacher. With smoldering sword in hand and knowledge in head she forged for herself a new home at Greensboro Day School. Her distinctive humor and wit endeared her to students and teachers alike. Her warmth just made it easier for them to take her into their hearts. Once she found this new abode, Dame Rhodes found that the battle was not over. She had many obstacles to overcome such as the hour and a half period which she slew with one sweep of her powerful patience and verbosity. Having survived such trials, she ventured forth into new realms of challenge. She found that her talent with trivia led her directly to the castle of the High IQ Bowl team and resulted in her own election into the Cum Laude Society. After winning the battle of acceptance, she is still fighting the war for the merited place of honor for her realm of dates, declensions, and dragons. So it is with much love and thanks that we, the Prowler Staff, would like to dedicate the 1986 yearbook to a warm, humorous, and beloved teacher and friend. Mrs. Janet Rhodes.

David Wilkinson Bell IV

First there were the horses all brown or black, tan or grey or mixed. Til one day a white one entered their midst. They all stared at the ivory horse so unlike themselves. They looked at his face — found fiery red eyes, and they all stared. Whispering, nudging each other, they spoke to one another about the newcomer. "What is it?" they pondered — "Could he be one of us? No, it can't be, see how different it is. None of us have that whiteness, or red eyes." So they ignored him, backed off, slowly left him behind, every now and then stopping to look back with a wandering gaze. And the alabaster horse never spoke informing them he was one of them. He only watched, wide-eyed, curious at what he'd done to offend them. Perhaps they were scared because he was different, not understanding that underneath the whiteness lay a horse just like them. So he walked on in the opposite direction, unafraid of being alone, content to be different.

William Blake

I say to you, my friends, that in spite of the difficulties and frustrations of the moment I still have a dream.
It is a dream deeply rooted in the American dream.
I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed. "We hold these truths to be self evident; that all men are created equal."

Martin Luther King, Jr.

If a nation expects to be ignorant and free, it expects what

If you think you are beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not, you don't.
If you like to win but think you can't ...
It's almost certain you won't.
If you think you'll lose, you're lost;
For out in the world we find
Success begins with a fellow's will.
It's all in the state of the mind.
If you think you are out-classed, you are,
You've got to think high to rise.
You've got to be sure of yourself
Before you can ever win a prize.
Life's battle doesn't always go
To the stronger or faster man.
But in the end the man that wins
Is the one who thinks he can.

"Real, isn't how you are made," said the Skin Horse. "It's a thing that happens to you. When (someone) loves you . . . Really loves you, then you become Real . . . It doesn't happen all at once. You become. It takes a long time. That's why it doesn't happen to people who break easily, or have sharp edges, or who have been carefully kept. Generally, by the time you are Real, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out and you get loose in the joints and very shabby. But these things don't matter at all, because once you are Real you can't be ugly, except to people who don't understand."

Varsity Soccer

Despite an overall disappointing season, this year's team did manage to accomplish many of the goals set at the beginning of the season. With a final record of 8-5-5, it is a season that will be remembered for its high points. After getting off to a slow start, the team improved greatly into mid-season, highlighted by a 9-1 victory over Oak Ridge. The best moments of the season came as the team defeated Forsyth Country Day School both games. This is a first in Day School history. Another goal that the team achieved was advancing into the state play-offs for the second year in a row. The soccer team is losing 8 seniors this year, but will return next year with high hopes and equally as high goals.

The Varsity Volleyball team, coached for the second year by Martha Knox, had an extremely successful season. The two-year defending state champions suffered more than usual from injuries, but managed to capture not only the titles of conference and district champions, but that of state champions as well. This is the first time that a Day School team has been able to secure all three titles. The girls owe their strong season not only to a very close starting line-up, but to a strong bench as well. The 1985 Bengal Volleyball Team would like to thank everyone for their support and especially Coach Knox. WE LOVE YOU!

This year the Varsity girl's tennis team had an unexpected successful season. Practice paid off, and the Bengals worked hard to secure first place in the conference for the eighth straight year and they went on to win the District Tournament for the sixth straight year. The team ended up fourth in the State Tournament, which was excellent considering they were not even ranked in the district pre-season. The girls practiced throughout the winter and are looking forward to many more successful seasons.

Cross Country

Cross Country is a sport for those who know that anything worth achieving requires some work. To runners, however, Cross Country is not work, but a way to have fun and get in shape. This year, the girl's team dominated in the private school league and went on to become state champions. The boy's team, after losing top runners last year, also had a very successful season defeating Forsyth, Charlotte Country Day, and Christ School to name a few. Congratulations to all runners and to coach, Charlie Brown.

A Tribute to the Fans

A Varsity Basketball game would not be the same without the familiar cheers from Libby Alspaugh. Even though Michael will not play next yer, the team should only hope that their favorite lady is present.

Joe Williams, Joey O'Connor, Diana Nappi, and Paul Davis, otherwise known as LIVE WIRE made their debut at the Homecoming pep rally. With songs like "You Really got Me" and "Smokin' in the Boy's Room", this band has won many fans over. Good luck!

Joe, the lead singer of the band, sings his rendition of Van Halen, Led Zepplin, Motley Crue, and Sting.

The wrestling team received tremendous support from the Pep Club the week of the Homecoming game. The bonfire was a huge success and the boys won!

Chase Ferguson and Lee Lesley show their school spirit as they root for the mighty Bengals.

The crowd is enthralled by the awesome soccer team. This year the soccer team received more support than ever before, crowding the bleachers at most of the home games.

Cheerleaders are an intergral part of the basketball season as they yell and scream and support both varsity basketball teams. GO BENGALS!

Varsity Girl's Basketball

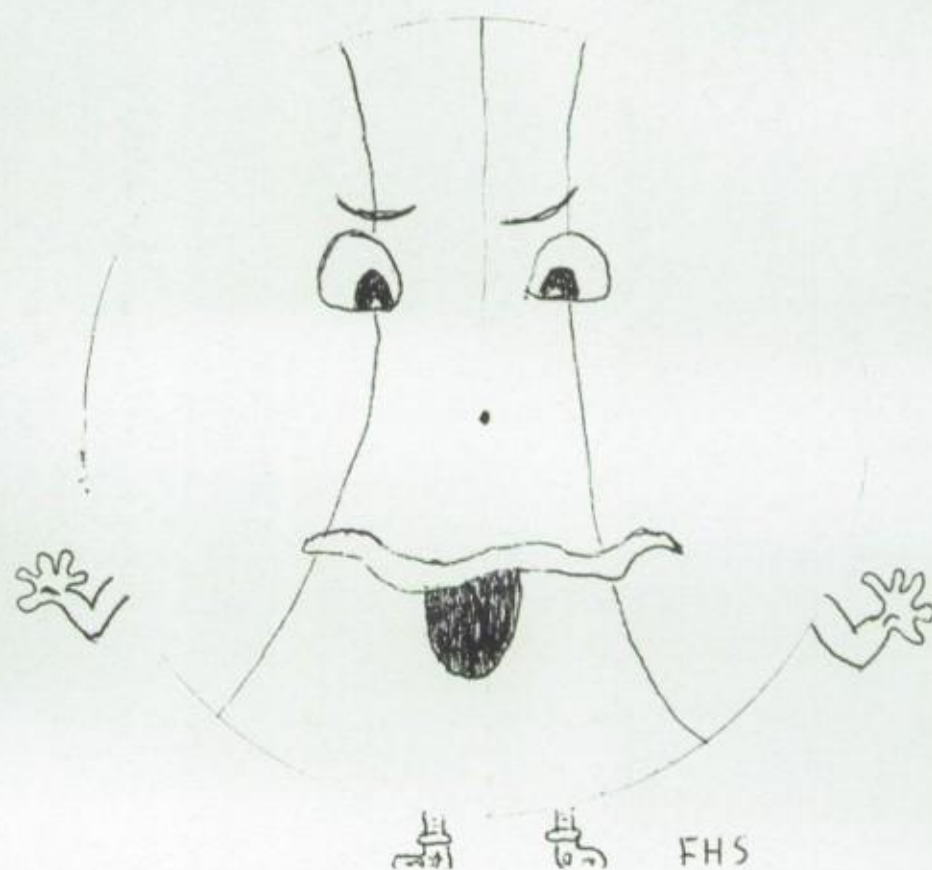

The Varsity girl's basketball team had a suprisingly good season. Under the supervision of a new coach, Skip Taylor, the Bengals have a very bright future. Having only one senior, this young team pulled off as they did incredibly well this year. The girls have put in many hours of practice as well as traveling to many schools in the district coming home with several victories. Coach Taylor trained the girls through this year and can anticipate many more successful years with the team.

The Varsity basketball team, like all sports teams at the Day School, has really worked hard and exhibited dedication as they ended with a fine season record. The team will lose a number of seniors, but will jump back into the game next year with several talented juniors, a few sophomores and the lone freshman. This team has played very well together due to overwhelming enthusiasm and support of each other.

Bengals take your mark ... GO! During the second year of its existence, the swim team proved to be an exciting addition to competition, school spirit, and physical fitness at the Day School. Both new and old swimmers shocked competitors by scoring high points. The potential for being state-ranked is enough to keep these swimmers' heads above water. The team promises to continue its hard work while bringing more opportunities to the students.

Wrestling

Scott Strasser, Jon Kim, Kevin-Mike Guthrie, Peter Kim, Jay Jester, Scott Merryman, Rob Rhodes, Cameron Cooke, David Helgeson, Sam Rollins

The wrestling team, in its second year at the Day School, did surprisingly well. The team gained several new players this year including freshmen. For three months, under the supervision of Mr. Fenske, these boys practiced consistently learning new moves and exercises. Although the team loses a number of seniors, they can hope for more experienced younger members.

Spring Sports

Play ball! On your mark, get set, GO! Winter is over and spring has begun bringing new sports to play. Baseball, softball, track, golf, and tennis are the spring attractions at the Day School. The welcomed warm air brings out the best of the athletes. Even though winter sports are over until the following year, spring sports keep the Day School's enthusiasm and healthy competitive spirit alive.

In its first year of existence, the Spanish Club offers Spanish students a chance to explore the language outside of class. The group had nightly meetings in which they saw Spanish films such as El Cid. By seeing these films, the members are able to sharpen their skills and are exposed to the culture of Spanish-speaking countries. The club also helps prepare students for competition in the Salem Language Day Competition.

FRENCH

The French Club is a group of students interested in carrying their language skills outside of the classroom. They have had French dinners, seen French films, and have seen Cyrano de Bergerac by Rostand. Though the club is only two years old, many exciting projects, such as participation in the Salem Language Day Competition, have been planned.

NEW STUDENT

In its third year of existence, the New Student Committee has become an important part of the Day School community. The committee tries to get new students involved in the school. They encourage the new students to attend sports events, school activities and parties. At the beginning of the year, the committee sponsors a luncheon to introduce new students to the school and life at GDS.

PEP CLUB

This year school spirit at Greensboro Day School is at an all time high so it is only appropriate that this year's Pep Club is one of the largest yet. The Pep Club has sponsored many Pep buses to away games and had pep rallies to show their support and enthusiasm for the school's athletic teams. The Pep Club also sponsored a Spirit Week consisting of a Pajama Day, Nerd Day, Hat Day, Beach Day, and a Green and Gold Day.

Presidents: Michael Alspaugh and Steve Adamczak

OUTING

President: Philip Cooke

This year, the Outing Club has been very busy. The group has sponsored many camping trips and skiing trips to West Virginia and Colorado. Some members also went on a bike trip traveling over a great deal of North Carolina. Advised by Mr. Merrill and Mr. Fenske, this large club has had the opportunity to really learn and experience the ways of the great outdoors.

CUM LAUDE

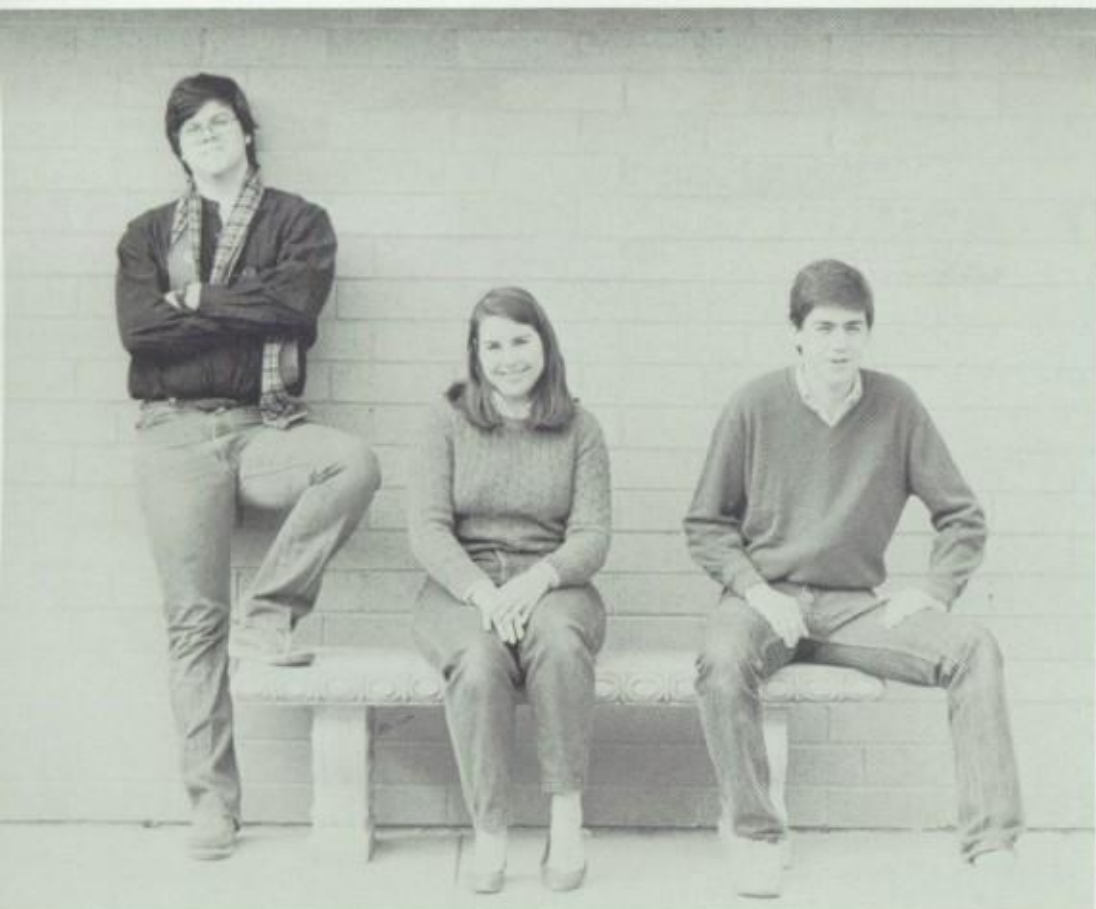

The Cum Laude Society, an organization based on academic excellence and citizenship, has had a very active year. Their main project this year has been to set up a tutoring program which the student members of the Cum Laude Society run and monitor themselves. The society has monthly dinners to discuss projects and future happenings. They sponsor the infamous Bengal Bowl and run the school's annual Book Fair. This year's Book Fair has been one of the most successful in the history of the school.

The newspaper staff has seen many changes this year. Under the editing skills of faculty advisor, Mr. Tommy Webb, they have strived for journalism perfection. The Spectator this year has been a blend of humor, personal views, and some controversial articles.

After its absence last year, the Drama Club is back and is going stronger than ever. Many of the Drama Club's members participated in GDS's presentation of I Remember Mama in the fall. The Drama Club has had nightly meetings at which they read one act plays and discuss the many areas involved in putting on a production.

The Interact Club, sponsored by the Rotary Club, initiated many projects to improve our school and community. This year the club donated money to Multiple Sclerosis, and clothing and toys to Goodwill. At Christmas the club members gathered clothes, toys, and Christmas decorations for a Cambodian family who would have otherwise had a bleak Christmas. In the spring the Interact Club organized the Fun Run for Green and Gold Day. The Interact Club is a chance for GDS students to get more involved in our school and community.

It has been another productive year for the writers of the Literary Magazine. The members have had nightly meetings at which they shared their writing with the group and then exchanged criticism and supportive comments of each other's works. The Literary Magazine sponsored a literary contest in the spring to encourage other students in the school to share their interest in writing.

The Junior Classical League, advised by Ms. Sirkel, has had another busy year. They held their annual feast in honor of the god Saturn, the Saturnalia, at Christmas this year. It was a very festive occasion with food, exchanging gifts, and Christmas carols in Latin. The members also prepare for the National Latin Exam and for the Salem Language Day Competition.

STUDENT LIFE

School Away From School

... finding a unique
classroom atmosphere.

The ninth graders headed to the Outer Banks once again during May Week 1985. From digging in marshes and examining the specimens, to running up Jockey's Ridge and learning about sand dunes, these students learned a great deal about our coast. Of course there were play times too. They spent sunny afternoons on the beach and some evenings as well to learn about the moon's effect on the tide. They also had the opportunity to get to know other kids in the class and they got to know some of the teachers better as well. The week, as in past years, was a huge success.

"I can't take a shower for a week?," "I have to sleep in a tent outside?," "We have to climb up that mountain?" are just a few of the questions one could have heard last spring as the juniors hiked in Pisgah National Forest. They learned to climb, repel, eat freeze-dried food, put up tents and tarps, sleep through a thunderstorm (well, try to), and look out for one another at all times. Any junior can tell you that the hiking trip was a great way to get to know different people, teachers, and even themselves. It was a new experience for many, but certainly one that each student grew from and would most likely do again. Everyone learned that week, Davy Crockett style.

The tenth grade spent their May Week helping others through various programs in Greensboro. Starmount Villa, a home for the elderly, and the Kendall Center, a residence for mentally handicapped people, were just a few of the many agencies the sophomores had the opportunity to work with. While they did not have the chance to go to a different city, the work that they did was worthwhile, not only for the people they helped, but for themselves as well.

Here's to you . . .

"Tuck in your shirttail," "No, you used that excuse last week," "Don't sit on the table where we have to eat," "That's a grasshopper, not a frog!" Since 1974, such comments have floated lovingly through the halls of GDS. Mr. Robertson created our Student Government and he led it successfully for 3 years. It is to "Vance-Father" we can be eternally grateful for the beloved Orange Drive with its humble beginnings emanating from the biology lab.

Best of all, Mr. Robertson is known as "Mr. Discipline," GDA style. How can one love a Disciplinarian? One must have his own Mr. Robertson in order to understand. He checks to see who is or is not (or was but now isn't) here. He listens patiently to stories worthy of any Creative Writing class. He worries over sick students and tired faculty. He is fair, kind and understanding, but mostly he loves us, as we love him. He has given so much of himself to this student body over the years. There is no way to say goodbye to such an integral part of our every school day. We salute him sadly and wish him well as we will always remember him fondly. To be remembered with love is what Mr. Robertson has always been about.

Many of us, students, parents, and staff alike, were not at Greensboro Day School when James P. Hendrix, Jr. came as Headmaster in 1977. Because of this, we may not fully appreciate the progress this school has made under his leadership.

Greensboro Day enrolled fewer students then. The school was just beginning to stand on its young feet, working to establish both its program and importance in Greensboro. The first graduates were still in college. The campus appearance was in great contrast to today. There were fewer buildings then — a basketball court stood in the place of the Arts Center, a pine wood grew where Harris Track and Field now spreads. Tennis courts and a little gym and the Hornaday Building were only hoped-for additions. Upper school, still small, included seventh and eighth graders, too.

A school grows in many dimensions, not only in its enrollment and campus. So it was that we gained deeper meaning for our motto of "friendship, scholarship, and sportsmanship." We have used our independence, so cherished by Jim Hendrix, to build exemplary programs in teacher improvements, in written language, in computers, in middle school, and in other curricula. We have experienced the excitement of an arts program sprouting from infancy to maturity. We have cheered GDS athletic teams which are more successful and more numerous than their predecessors. The Day School's program has taken its place beside the best independent school throughout the country.

Much has changed in nine years. Dr. Hendrix would unselfishly credit the gains to the hard work of others: indeed, these accomplishments have come from the efforts of many, but the inspiration and leadership have come largely from one source. We are fortunate and grateful for the services given to Greensboro Day School by Jim Hendrix. We do not seek now to replace him, for we know that we cannot, but seek rather to continue together the work he has begun at our school. We'll miss you!

HOMECOMING

January 10-11, 1986

Homecoming Court is an exciting event at the Day School. Ten girls are chosen representing the four grades of the upper school. And, only one of these radiant young ladies is chosen as queen. During halftime of the Varsity Boy's basketball game, the court is presented. Finally, the moment arrives and the crowd cheers. The Prowler wishes to congratulate Mallory May, Homecoming Queen, and the 1986 Homecoming Court.

Classroom Presentation, Leningrad

Primary School Students, Moscow

My trip to the Soviet Union in October of 1985 was a terrific success. From the Parisian beauty of Leningrad to the forbidding grandeur of Moscow I had a rich variety of experiences, all of which taught me significant things about Russia and helped me build peaceful relationships with Soviet people. There was the official tour: events scheduled by Intourist, the state tourist bureau. There was the unofficial tour: chance meetings which led to "underground" events. Although my times off the given track were particularly exciting, both sides of the tour were illuminating. Of all the things I learned, probably the most useful were the realizations of how little we Americans know about Soviet life, how complex and various Soviet reality is, and how appearances are often deceptive.

HEADLINE A

It is my hope that the readers of this book - students, teachers, parents, members of the community - will not only enjoy it, but will also recognize the time and effort of many people that went into its publication.

Putting together a yearbook has meant many things to me. It has meant working with all different types of people - learning about their creative ideas and perceptions. It has meant gaining insight into peer relations - always smiling, thanking, and understanding the other side. It has meant giving up study halls, afternoons, nights, weekends, vacations, sleep, and sanity at times. It has meant overcoming obstacles and crises. It has meant occasionally disappointing teachers and friends, as I sometimes could not commit myself. It has meant pushing myself further when I thought I had no energy left. It has meant developing pictures, fitting copy, cropping pictures, making phone calls, and announcing meetings in assembly. It has meant eating, drinking, sleeping, thinking, and dreaming yearbook for six months. It has been an experience that I will not forget.

Yet, many people work on the yearbook who commit their time as well. I would like to thank the yearbook staff for being so helpful, dedicated, creative, and an essential part in bringing the yearbook to you, the reader. I would also like to thank the Bengais, Patrons, and Sponsors because without their support, we would not have an annual. To my teachers, thank you for putting up with my "yearbook" excuses. They were valid and I appreciate it; to my friends, thank you for understanding me; to my parents, thank you for your love and support (and typing in the middle of the night); to Mrs. Hord, thank you for lending me pencils, rosters, ideas, and some great philosophy; to Dr. Hendrix, thank you for your constant reinforcement and support of the annual as a whole - we will miss you; to Mallory, Ed, Sara, Lisa, David, Karen, Fred, and Elyse, you have been incredible editors. Thank you for doing the job right. Finally, I would like to thank Ms. Barnes. Thank you for the reminders, the proofing, the calls, the support, and the friendship. Thank you for helping me to the very end - I couldn't have done it without you. WE DID IT!

Seniors, as your last memories of the Day School, students, as a culmination of the 1985-1986 school year, I sincerely hope that you enjoy "the fruits of our labors". Thank you Greensboro Day School for allowing me to have this opportunity.

A simple line drawing of a house with a chimney, a smiling sun, and flowers. The house has a triangular roof and a rectangular body. A chimney is on the right side of the roof. There are three windows on the front wall, each divided into four panes. A path leads from the bottom center of the house to the bottom of the page. There are four flowers: two on the left and two on the right of the path. A smiling sun is in the top left corner.
